

Scenes For Spiritual Rejuvenation

By George Grubb, Photographer

The prints presented in this exhibition were photographed in various remote locations around the World. Much of my photographic work has involved extensive travel to remote regions to preserve nature's wonder and beauty, if only in memory, with an emphasis on photographing endangered and threatened species in their natural habitats. This small collection of prints represents a fraction of those experiences. Working with Wake Forest Baptist Medical Center's Arts and Health Programs' Art Curator, Barbara Cullen, these images were chosen for their spiritual and rejuvenating qualities that inspire a sense of wonder while instilling peace and serenity. Each print in this exhibition stands on its own premise, isolated from the normal tradition of a solo artist exhibition where all images unite to further a larger theme. On the contrary, each image singularly invites the viewer to be transcended into a unique scene of vibrant intrigue set in nature's solitude. Together, this collection of images seeks to transcend the viewer from life's daily burdens and interruptions, into a World where every breath is heartfelt, and the sound of stillness reverberates loudly through the soul. To perpetuate this mission, all works in this collection have been donated to Wake Forest Baptist Medical Center.
